Freedom of Information Policy

1. INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 The University College of Osteopathy (UCO) is required to comply with the Freedom of Information Act 2000¹ (the FIA), which provides public access to information held by public authorities, and the Environmental Information Regulations 2004 (EIR)², which provide public access to environmental information held by public authorities.
- 1.2 The UCO is committed to complying with both the FIA and EIR and endorses a culture of openness across the public sector; in order to ensure that it continues to function successfully and maintains the confidence of its stakeholders, the UCO is committed to complying with the FIA and EIR and to ensuring that its information is managed lawfully and appropriately.
- 1.3 Under the FIA and EIR, anyone, anywhere, has a right to request information held by the UCO, which the UCO must provide to them within 20 working days subject to exemptions allowed by the FIA³ or exceptions allowed by the EIR⁴.
- 1.4 The FIA and EIR covers both old and new information in any recorded form or format, which includes documents, computer files, letters, emails, photographs, and sound or video recordings.
- 1.5 UCO departments and staff who hold the information requested are required to provide it within agreed deadlines and in line with this policy.
- 1.6 Where a request for information is refused due to an exemption allowed by the FIA, or an exception allowed by the EIR, the UCO shall inform the requester of this within the 20 working days.
- 1.7 If the requester is not satisfied with a decision about their request or about the process used they have a right to appeal. This will also initiate an internal review process to reassess the way in which the request was handled. If the requester is not satisfied with the outcome of their appeal, they have the right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO)⁵.
- 1.8 Under the FIA and EIR, the UCO must also make certain information available pro-actively through a Publication Scheme.

2. SCOPE

- 2.1 The FIA and EIR requires the UCO to:

- a) To inform the requester whether we hold any information falling within the scope of their request.
 - b) To make that information available, unless an exemption applies.
 - c) To always respond to a request in writing.
- 9.2 Under the FIA a request for information not included within the Publication Scheme must be made in writing. Requests under the EIR need not be in writing.

A) EXEMPTIONS UNDER THE FIA

11.1 The FIA contains a number of exemptions which may be applied to information held by the UCO. These can be found in Part II of the FIA, at sections 21 to 44.

11.2 There are two types of exemption:

- a) Absolute exemptions where the UCO is not required to consider the public interest in disclosing the information and can automatically withhold information if the exemption. These may include:

Section of the FIA	Exemption
S(2) 21	Information accessible by other means (such as in the Publication Scheme).
S(2) 23	Information supplied by, or relating to, bodies dealing with security matters.
S(2) 32	Information relating to court records or proceedings.
S(2) 36	Information prejudice to effective conduct of public authorities.
S(2) 40	Information that is personal and would breach the General Data Protection Regulation or Data Protection Act 2018.
S(2) 41	Information provided in confidence.
S(2) 44	Information whereby disclosure is prohibited by an enactment or would constitute contempt of court.

11.3 Non-Absolute (or Qualified) exemptions, where the UCO must decide whether it is in the public interest disclose the information or withhold it by undertaking a Public Interest Test¹⁶. These may include:

S(2) 40	Information relating to personal information relating to a third party.
S(2) 42	Information relating to legal professional privilege.
S(2) 43	Information relating to commercial interests.

11.4 Where the Public Interest Test determines that it is within the public interest to withhold the information, the UCO shall issue a refusal notice¹⁷ explaining why and referring to the particular exemption.

11.5 The Public Interest Test shall also be applied to determine whether a “neither confirm nor deny” (NCND) response¹⁸ is provided. A refusal notice shall likewise be issued if an NCND response is determined.

B) EXCEPTIONS UNDER THE EIR

11.6 The EIR contains a number of exceptions where the UCO may refuse to provide the requested information. These include:

Section of the EIR	Exception
R5(3)	The information is the personal data of the requester.
R12(3) & R13	The information is the personal data of a person other than the requester.
R12(4)(a)	When the UCO does not hold the information.
R12(4)(b)	When the request is ‘manifestly unreasonable’.
R12(4)(c)	When the request is too general.
R12(4)(d)	When the request is for unfinished documents.
R12(4)(e)	When the request involves the disclosure of internal communications.
R12(5)(a-g)	When the request may ‘adversely affect’ one of the interests listed in regulations 12(5)(a) to 12(5)(g) of the EIR, subject to regulation 12(9) regarding information to emissions.

11.7 Where the UCO must decide whether to refuse a request on any of the exceptions listed above it shall undertake a Public Interest Test similar to that to determine an exemption under the FIA, and also that where a request may ‘adversely affect’ an interest listed in regulations 12(5)(a) to 12(5)(g), the UCO shall undertake an Adverse Effect Test in line with the ICO's guidance¹⁹.

12. REFUSING REQUESTS

12.1 The UCO can refuse an entire request under the following circumstances:

- a) It would cost too much or take too much staff time to deal with the request.
- b) The request is vexatious.
- c) The request repeats a previous request from the same person.

12.2 When a request is refused the UCO shall issue a refusal notice explaining why.

13. APPEALS PROCEDURE

13.1 The UCO has established the following appeals procedure to provide requesters the opportunity to request an internal review of their information request.

13.2 This procedure shall:

- a) Reassess the way in which the request was handled, and the decision made.
- b) Be undertaken by a senior and impartial staff member able to make an independent decision that may overturn the original outcome if required.

13.3 Requesters may not be satisfied with the outcome of their request for the following reasons:

- a) Disagree with our interpretation of their request.
- b) Believe we hold more information than we have disclosed.
- c) Still be waiting for a response and are unhappy with the delay.

13.4 If a requester is not satisfied with how their request was handled or with the outcome of their request they should in the first instance contact the UCO's Data Protection & Freedom of Information Officer (DPFIO) to determine whether their concern can be resolved informally.

13.5 If the concern cannot be resolved informally, the requester should write to the DPFIO to request an internal review explaining why they are dissatisfied with the outcome or handling of their request within 60 days of receiving their initial outcome, stating as fully as possible why they think their request was not dealt with in accordance with the FIA or the EIR, and the remedy which they are seeking from the UCO:

- 13.9 The chair of the review committee shall respond to the requester's appeal normally within 40 working days of its receipt by the DPFIO. If the review committee decides that additional information should be released to the requester, the information shall be provided to them as soon as is practically possible.
- 13.10 If the appeal relates to a request to which we responded more than 60 days ago, the requester should contact the Information Commissioner (see below).
- 13.11 If the requester remains dissatisfied with the reviewed response, they may appeal to the Information Commissioner who may investigate the matter on their behalf.
- 13.12 Alternatively, requesters may raise their concerns regarding the way in which we handled their request or about the outcome of their request with the Information Commissioner in the first instance.
